

COWBRIDGE,

WITH THE PARISHES AND VILLAGES OF COLWINSTONE, FLEMINGSTONE, LLANBLETHIAN, LLANDOUGH, LLANMIHANGEL, LLANSANNOR, LLANTRILLOYD, LLYSWORNEY, NASH, PENILINE, ST. HILARY, ST. MARY CHURCH, STEMBRIDGE, WELSH ST. DONATTS AND YSTRADOWEN.

COWBRIDGE is a parliamentary borough, market and post town in the parish and hundred of its own name, situated in the pleasant, fertile and well-cultivated vale of Glamorgan. It is 172 (by rail 186) miles w. from London, 55 s.w. from Bristol (via Bristol and South Wales Railway), 12 w. from Cardiff, 7 e. from Bridgend, and 40 e. from Swansea. It is in the Bridgend and Cowbridge union and county court district, the Cardiff district Court of Bankruptcy, and in the diocese of Llandaff, and deanery of Gro-Neath (lower division). The town consists chiefly of one long street, stretching from east to west, containing some well-built houses, a Town Hall and convenient Market House. It is a contributory borough, with Cardiff and Llantrissant, in returning one member to Parliament; and is governed by a mayor and two bailiffs, the former appointed by the Marquis of Bute for life, and the latter elected by the burgesses annually. A court of record may be holden under the charter of Charles II. but the Corporation do not avail themselves of the privilege; the only court is one of common council, held as occasion may require, for transacting the borough business. Petty sessions are held at the Police Station every alternate Tuesday. This place is without manufactures and its trade, which is local and domestic, is chiefly supported by those engaged in agriculture, and by the market and fairs which are numerous and well attended. In the eleventh century the town was encompassed by a wall, by Robert de St. Quinton, one of the Roman adventurers, who afterwards rebuilt and strengthened a castle called Llanblethian, situated near the village, of which only one of the gates now remains standing. The parish church of St. Mary is a handsome building in the Norman style of architecture, with square tower and peal of eight bells, and was restored in 1851 at a cost of £1,400. Dr. Benjamin H. Malkin, the celebrated historian of South Wales, was buried here, and there is a tablet to his memory. There are also chapels for English and Welsh Baptists and Wesleyan and Calvinistic Methodists. The living is a vicarage consolidated with Llanblethian and Welsh St. Donatts, in the gift of the dean and chapter of Gloucester. The Grammar School was founded and endowed by Sir Leoline Jenkins, who was judge of the prerogative court, and Secretary of State in the reign of James II. and had been educated at the school. He not only endowed the school but gave the site of the present building. He founded six monitorships each of the present value of £16 10s. and provided for the admission of certain boys free. The scholarships and fellowships originally attached to the school have been, as in most foundations, thrown open to competition by the Royal Commission, in granting to English boys educated in the school equal advantages with the Welsh, in competing for the scholarships and fellowships of Jesus College, Oxford. There are also large and commodious Board schools. There is a branch of the Taff Vale Railway from Llantrissant station (Great Western) to this town. The market is held on Tuesday; and there are twelve great markets or fairs in the year, namely—first Tuesday in January and February, on the Tuesday before the 25th March, first Tuesday in April, May 4th, June 24th, the first Tuesday in July and August, September 29th, and the first Tuesday in October, November and December. The markets and fairs are well attended, and are chiefly for cattle of all kinds, that in August includes wool. The parish of Cowbridge contained in 1861, 1,049 inhabitants, and in 1871, 1,134.

COLWINSTONE is a parish and village about 3 miles from Cowbridge. Charles C. Prichard, Esq. of Pwllwyrach, who is lord of the manor, and Lord Tredegar are principal owners of the land. LLYSWORNEY is a small parish and village about two miles from Cowbridge railway station. It contains about 870 statute acres. The places of worship are the parish church and a chapel for Calvinistic Methodists. The living is a rectory annexed to the vicarage of Llantwit Major, in the gift of the dean and chapter of Gloucester. There is a day school, which was erected by the late R. C. N. Carne, Esq. at a cost of £250. Population in 1871, 166.

NASH is a very small parish adjoining Llysworney, &c. Nash Manor, the residence of John D. Nicholl Carne, Esq. is about half a mile from the village. Population in 1871, 8.

PENLLINE is a parish about two miles from Cowbridge. The remains of Penlline castle are here situated; they bear the marks of extreme antiquity. Part of the site is now occupied by the modern castellated mansion of John Richards Homfray, Esq. J.P. and D.L. The living is a vicarage in the patronage of the Earl of Dunraven. There is a Board school in the village. Acreage, 1,784; population in 1871, 320.

ST. HILARY is a parish about one mile from Cowbridge. Mrs. Traherne is principal owner of the soil and lady of the manor. The parish church is the only place of worship; the living is a vicarage in the gift of the dean and chapter of Llandaff. There is also a National school. Area, 1,177 statute acres. Population in 1871, 166.

ST. MARY CHURCH is a parish about 2½ miles from Cowbridge, its post town, and eight from Bridgend. It contains 727 statute acres. C. R. M. Talbot, Esq. M.P. is lord of the manor and owner of the entire parish. The church is dedicated to St. Mary. The living is a rectory annexed to that of Llandough, in the patronage of the lord of the manor. Population in 1871, 144.

STEMBRIDGE is a very small parish about three miles from Cowbridge. Acreage, 37. There are no places of worship. Population in 1871, 7.

WELSH ST. DONATS is a parish about three miles from Cowbridge and the same from Llantrissant station. Aubrey Aubrey, Esq. is the principal landowner. The church living is a perpetual curacy consolidated with Llanblethian and Cowbridge. There is a Board school at Maindy in this parish. Area, 2,070 statute acres. Population in 1871, 138.

YSTRADOWEN is a parish and village about three miles from Cowbridge. Aubrey Aubrey, Esq. is the principal owner of the soil. The railway from Cowbridge to Llantrissant station passes through the parish and has a station here. The only place of worship is the parish church, which was entirely rebuilt in 1867, the old structure being replaced by a neat Gothic edifice. The living is a vicarage in the patronage of the Bishop of Llandaff. Acreage, 1,003. Population in 1871, 232.

The above parishes and villages are all included in the Bridgend and Cowbridge unions and county court district and in the diocese of Llandaff. Cowbridge is the post town.

LLANTRITHYD is a parish about three miles from Cowbridge and nine from Cardiff, in the Cardiff union and county court district and hundred of Dinas Powis. It contains about 1,349 acres. Aubrey Aubrey, Esq. is chief owner of the land. The only place of worship is the parish church. The living is a rectory in the gift of the representatives of the late Sir T. Aubrey, Bart. There is also a National school. Acreage, 1,349. Population in 1871, 188.
